WOLVERHAMPTON HEALTH AND WELLBEING BOARD FOCUS DAY ON THE CITY'S RESPONSE TO THE FRANCIS REPORT

- On 26 March 2013 Health Secretary Jeremy Hunt unveiled the Government's response to the Francis Report which included:
 - ❖ Putting in place a culture of zero-harm and compassionate care
 - ❖ A new regulatory model under a strong, independent Chief Inspector of Hospitals
 - ❖ A new statutory duty of candour
 - ❖ Health and social care professionals will be held more accountable.
 - ❖ NHS-funded student nurses will spend up to a year working on the frontline as healthcare assistants, as a prerequisite for receiving funding for their degree.
 - ❖ The Chief Inspector will introduce single aggregated ratings and develop ratings of hospital performance at department level.
 - ❖ CQC will move to a new specialist model based on rigorous and challenging peer-review.
 - ❖ A new Chief Inspector of Social Care will ensure the same rigour is applied across the health and care system. The merits of having a Chief Inspector of Primary Care are also being explored.
 - ❖ A review by the NHS Confederation of how to reduce the bureaucratic burden on frontline staff and NHS providers by a third.

- NHS Board's in Wolverhampton will individually have signed off their action plans to respond to the Francis Report but the lessons learnt will span all care sectors in the city and there can be shared learning from these.

- Today's focus day is about sharing the individual actions plans and about broadening the lessons and actions across the whole of the care sector.
