Further details

I object to the licensing of these premises because the city have managed to restrict alcohol sales unless they are consumed on the premises, thus providing a measure of control and regulation. This license would allow people to buy alcohol to drink off the premises. This would risk nuisance in the surrounding streets by those indulge in anti social behaviour when intoxicated. Many young people, who might be refused from premises who sell to on-site consumers, would take advantage of this relaxation, which might result in rowdyism and worse.
