My reasons for objecting to the event are:

The lack of organised parking in the local streets, I speak in particular to Finchfield Road, [REDACTED]. People were parking on both sides of the road, which made it almost impossible for the regular buses to pass each other. I also witnessed a near accident when a family stepped out between the parked cars and were almost hit, the driver, in my opinion, was driving far too fast in a very busy area.

Also the noise level. [REDACTED] all I could hear was a deep base noise going thump thump thump, drowning out my television. Is it really necessary to have the music so loud and so much base thumping away?

I also think that 22.00 hours closing time is too late, thinking about elderly neighbours who go to bed early.

Thank you, [REDACTED]
